SKIN LESION REMOVAL

Dr. Thomason performs excision of skin lesions on the face, scalp or neck. These sensitive areas warrant careful attention to the shape and position of scar, to maximize the cosmetic outcome. Dr. Thomason also has extensive experience in repairing surgical defects in these areas after Moh's surgery for skin cancer.

SCAR REVISION

Many people do not realize that the appearance of unsightly scars in the face, scalp, or neck can be effectively camouflaged when treated properly. Scars that are wide or that are oriented in the wrong position may need to be excised and reoriented with careful, layered closure with sutures. Scars that are raised or uneven may best be treated with localized dermabrasion. This removes the superficial layers of the scar and the adjacent skin to facilitate blending the scar with the healthy surrounding skin.
